PETER JACKSON DESIGN PTY LTD

This heritage-listed home of high local significance warranted careful and considered renovation. The result is a carefully considered renovation and extension, complementing the original home's grandeur. The original features of the home have been preserved and integrated seamlessly with the new additions, creating a home where it is difficult to distinguish new from old. Meticulous detailing is to be admired, and the skilful craftsmanship helps in achieving a wonderfully preserved heritage building.

This project was also a Winner for Residential Restoration and also received a Commendation for Excellence in Use of Masonry.

The client's uncle sailed from Princes Pier to Pozieres, France in 1916, never to return. The recycled timber posts and beams sourced from Princes Pier now support the numerous gables around the house, a synergy which is extremely important to the client. This raw recycled Ironbark exudes strength, and connects the house to the surrounding manna gums. Elements from the original homestead have also been utilized; Jarrah boards surround the upper floor windows and the historical white gate re-hung.
